Pertinent Observation

I thought you might be interested in a comment Patrick Henry made when someone described to him the methods, functions and administration of the CIA. Mr. Henry said, "The liberties of a people never were, nor ever will be, secure, when the transactions of their rulers may be concealed from them."

Of course, Mr. Henry's a pretty wild extremist with that "Give me liberty or give me death" stuff, but I thought his observation sort of pertinent—don't you?
